What are your dreams?

To have enough money to...

- retire and spend the next year cruising around the world
- work a few hours part-time and spend the rest of your week restoring a classic vintage car
- live off the interest accrued on your investments while you relax at your favourite fishing spot
- chill out for six months each year at your chateaux in the Dordogne, or maybe
- open a children's orphanage and see the joy on their faces as they experience your love in action

Maybe your thoughts are not so grand.

Maybe you just dream of having enough money to...

- help your children/grandchildren through university
- take a summer and a winter family holiday each year
- pay all the bills and have a little over at the end of the month
- put a little aside for your retirement nest egg

This book is specifically about the 'how-to' of wealth creation but you do need to have an idea of what you want before you start. If I lived in London and wanted to travel to the capital of France, I'd be foolish just to set off not knowing which city it is, where it was or indeed how to get there!

We need to have a clear picture of where we want to go and a good 'roadmap' for getting there. That's what this book does - it sets you off on the right direction to achieve your dream.

As for your dreams – much has been written about this subject. Rob Parsons in his excellent book “The Heart of Success” devotes a whole chapter to ‘believing in the power of dreams’.

Just decide how much money is enough because...

You can have it!

No privileged upbringing, no doctorates in quantum physics or 6 matching numbers in Saturday’s rollover lottery jackpot. Just a few simple common sense re-arrangements in your life and you can have all the wealth and the free time to enjoy it!

Side note:

This book is principally about wealth. Wealth is part of how most people judge success.
But wealth alone does not equal success.

Successful people have a healthy balance that includes money, but also time for family & friends, charity work and maybe a spiritual understanding. Having the time to appreciate giving to others is just as important as having enough money to enjoy for ourselves. So please keep it in perspective.

With that in mind, let’s grab a coffee, pen & paper and begin the journey to prosperity.

Yes, you really can have enough money and time to live the lifestyle you want!

[... and here's just one of the practical tips]

Option FOUR – Reduce your fuel bills

Gas, electricity, the telephone (and for some people, mobile phones & internet connection) are necessary expenses.

We need them! However, with deregulation of the utility industries, it is now possible to shop around. Do a search on the internet for 'utility comparisons' and several websites will be able to instantly advise on the cheapest option for you.

When it comes to gas and electricity, no matter where you live in mainland UK or your current fuel usage levels, there's one company that consistently provides the cheapest and best deals.

The same company also provides excellent packages for landline telephones, mobile phones and internet access.

For an independent comparison, go to the energywatch site:

<http://www.energywatch.org.uk/links>

Or if you want to go straight to the cheapest gas/electricity site:

If you are serious about reducing your outgoings, this option must be worth looking into as these are essential services for virtually all of us. So it makes sense to reduce these bills!
